Happy Birthday Saint Paul's

On Wednesday, September 14, Saint Paul's celebrated the 105th anniversary of the opening of Saint Paul's College in 1911 by the Benedictines of Saint Joseph Abbey. On that day, forty-eight students, five Benedictine priests (Fathers Augustine, Adelbert, Aemillion, Martin, and Placid) and four lay teachers (Messrs. Edgar Barre, Oliver Lyons, Bernard Mutter, and Leopoldo Teller) walked through the arch for the first time and opened the school. By year's end, seventy boarders and thirty day students had enrolled. Today, with over 850 men of God, Saint Paul's strives to be the number one choice for parents on the Northshore. View this website for a brief pictorial of the past 100 years.

Saint Paul's, A Lasallian School

The Institute of the Brothers of the Christian Schools is a Catholic religious order of laymen whose mission is to provide spiritual and human education to the young, especially the poor. Founded by St. John Baptist de La Salle in 17th century France, today approximately 5,000 Brothers and 80,000 Partners serve nearly 900,000 students in about 1,000 educational ministries located in 80 countries. The Brothers of the Christian Schools is the largest religious order of Brothers in the Church dedicated solely to the mission of Christian education. The Institute's headquarters, Casa Generalizia, is located in Rome, Italy.

The Lasallian Region of North America (RELAN) is one of five global regions served by Lasallian ministries. It encompasses the United States and Canada, and contains four Districts: District of Eastern North America, District of Francophone Canada, District of the Midwest, and District of San Francisco New Orleans. The Region contains a network of 7 colleges, 53 high schools, 19 middle schools, and 3 elementary schools, as well as a number of youth care facilities, residential and day treatment programs for special educational and behavioral needs, retreat centers, after school programs, and summer camps. The Region's headquarters, Christian Brothers Conference, is located in Washington, D.C.

The District of San Francisco New Orleans was established on July 1, 2014. It was created by combining the legacy Districts of San Francisco and New Orleans-Santa Fe, which between them had provided nearly 240 years of continuous ministry through their schools and other educational works. Today's District includes 21 schools in eight states and Tijuana, Mexico, where over 130 Brothers and 1,300 Lasallian Partners serve nearly 13,000 students. The District's headquarters, De La Salle Institute, is located in Napa, California, with a second office located in Covington, Louisiana.

As the world around Saint Paul's Schools shifts and changes to focus on technology and advancement, Saint Paul's continues to do what it does best: Keep up with these changes. This tireless pursuit is achieved by a combination of both new classes and extracurricular activities. These avenues aim to equip a community of students, passionate about science and technology, with the skills and initiative to become the next generation of leaders and create positive changes in the robotics and technology fields.

The extracurricular side of this attempt can be seen in the rapidly expanding RoboWolves organization founded in 2014. The activity was created after the implementation of the Hornbeck Offshore Services PLTW Gateway to Technology program at Saint Paul's. During its first year, the program only included pre-freshmen candidates. After only a single school year, the club was invited to participate in the VEX Worlds competition located in Louisville, Kentucky. For the past two years, Saint Paul's has been the only Louisiana Middle School Team invited to participate. The competition involves close to one thousand student led robotics teams from across the world. Since their initial invitation, the club has been invited back by the prestigious competition every year.

In addition to their highly sought after invitation to the international competition, the organization has also won a variety of awards from around the state. During their first year of competition, the RoboWolves were the RSR/Loyola VEX Tournament Champions, the winner of the State Middle School Excellence Award, and the Holy Cross VRC Tournament Champions. The following year, the club continued to showcase their talents by winning the Holy Cross VRC Tournament yet again, being rewarded the Excellence Award of the Holy Cross VRC Tournament, winning the Saint Paul's VRC Tournament, and being recognized as the Louisiana State Champions.

The organization also has exciting plans to expand their mission statement of technology and student run competition into new grade levels. As of now, the club remains open to pre-freshman, freshman, and sophomores. However, the club plans to expand to include all grade levels with a new addition every single year. This year promises to be the most successful yet with over forty students on the roster. Their first competition is December 3rd at Holy Cross High School and they plan to host a competition in the Briggs Assembly Center in January for the local southern area schools.

The curriculum side of this technological push comes in the form of a newly christened AP Computer Science class, part of the Hornbeck Offshore Services PLTW Program, that aims to instruct students on how to design and implement computer programs that solve problems relevant to today's society, including technology, media, and engineering.

Students in the complex program will have the opportunity to follow a distinct AP framework that will teach everything for the Computer Science field from learning to write in the universal and highly recognized Java Script to learning how to conduct computer algorithms and other unique functions. Besides learning about the technique side of technology, they will also learn about the place of computers in today's world. The students will analyze the ethical, social, and global implications of computer use.

Founder's Week

One of the strongest and most eternal memories of Saint Paul's School comes in the form of the Five Core Principles. These principles form the very basis of our attitude and culture from the oldest students to the newest. The principles include rhetoric about concern for the poor and social justice, quality education, faith in the presence of God, inclusive community, and respect for all persons. While these beliefs and attitudes are always at the forefront of life at Saint Paul's, the school takes a special week to honor these principles in the form of Founder's Week. The week is dedicated to not only the founder of the Lasallian Education, Saint John Baptist De Lasalle, but also the Christian Brothers founders of Saint Paul's.

The format of the weeklong celebration always follows roughly the same pattern. Each day takes on a varied core principal with different activities, lessons, and speakers. On the day for quality education, teachers are encouraged to speak about their college education and give more information about their educational path. In addition to a student's core teachers, two special teachers are chosen to make an announcement to the entire school about their education. Concern for the poor and social justice is represented by a special assembly in which a past student, a charitable organization, or a current student will speak about their work in the community and the impact it has had on the area as well as the members of the community.

Wednesday highlighted Faith in the presence of God with five prayer services allowing the students to choose what service was the best for them: adoration in the Briggs Assembly Center, Joyful Songs in the new gym, reflections on the teachings of Mother Theresa in the theatre, a rosary at the Katrina Memorial, and meditation in Our Lady of Peace Chapel. Respect for all persons took on a new plan this year with the day now being categorized by an administrative led community building activity. The activity includes every student in the school answering basic questions about their favorite movie, family, and even hobbies. The students are then encouraged to meet other students and ask them about their answers to the questions. The aim is to break increase communication and build community among students and faculty on campus.

Eucharistic Adoration and meditation was one of the prayer options for students.

The climax to the week comes in the form of field day on the day designated for inclusive community. The school wide celebration includes games, activities, and costumes for all students to experience and get involved. At first, students are segregated by grade where they bond over games with their own peers. Then the entire school gathers in the gym to watch a dance tournament and a basketball tournament with all grade participation before the day is concluded with a school wide favorite: the Senior-Faculty volleyball game.

Saint Paul's School senior Eric Coston celebrated Founder's Week by traveling to the prestigious 36th annual Woodbridge Cross Country Classic in picturesque southern California where he competed against the very best in the nation. Other competitors boasted individual state records much like Coston himself. Coston finished in 7th place in the sweepstakes category of the meet with a blistering pace of a 14:29 for a three-mile race. Click HERE for the Paper Wolf article.

HOSA Health Professionals is an organization dedicated to the students interested in health care and related fields. HOSA gives students an opportunity to meet, socialize and expand their knowledge with a like-minded community. Saint Paul's HOSA members will receive a myriad of useful skills and knowledge from the organization. The students will become CPR certified, meet outstanding professionals, and compete in the yearly Louisiana state competition. Furthermore, HOSA provides leadership opportunities, while building self confidence through activities and competitions.

Natasha H. Poe and Dr. Yoshi Uke Kikuchi from the St. Tammany Parish Coroner's Office visited one of the biomedical sciences classes at Saint Paul's School to discuss the educational requirements, duties, and the work involved in working with the coroner on DNA processing. The speakers are part of the Dr. David and Mrs. Oubre Biomedical Sciences Program which is a Project Lead the Way elective curriculum. The program was originally funded by The Harry T. Howard Foundation/Touro Infirmary grant and contains four biomedical based science courses based on national standards and hands-on experiential learning.

Math Tournament

Math Tournament

The twenty-second annual Saint Paul's Math Tournament was attended by 283 mathletes from sixteen different schools consisting of magnet, public, private, Catholic, and some middle schools. Our tournament is the kickoff of the math competition season. We had three divisions this year: Middle, Magnet, and Other. As the host school, we placed ourselves in the magnet school division and the older students did not compete. As is the custom, no calculators were allowed.

An unbelievable amount of work goes into planning a math tournament, but an unbelievable amount of joy comes from experiencing the love of math that these students bring to the table. The tournament takes place across campus using the cafeteria, Lasalle Hall, Benilde Hall and the Briggs Assembly Center. Karen Hebert helps coordinate the hospitality room with refreshments and assists in taking pictures of the event. Pam Cullen, Math Department Chair, Kristin Legraize, and Dr. Shannon d'Hemecourt help in running the tournament. The mothers of Mu Alpha Theta members bring food and refreshments for the visiting teachers and Peggy and Nancy Patout from Catholic High in Baton Rouge run the grading room! Results are as follows:
